GROVER AND THE FARMER.

Grover went a-fishing to catch a mess Along came a farmer, saying: "Hey, you, there! git out!"

The hole where Grover angled was Dennis tore, was mad afterwards Mesa for several years and afterwards in Where the speckled little beauties, as it happened, could be found.

"Good sir," said Grover, smiling in his most bewitching way, But the frowning farmer stopped him to emphatically say: "Git out, or else, by ginger! I'll sic the dog on you! Come, hurry, or I'll have to take the pitchfork to you, too!"

Then Grover took his tackle-his con fusion was intense-And, with elephantine movements tried to clamber o'er the fence.

The ralls broke down beneath him-Moses! what a fall was there! The farmer jawed him roundly, there were rockets in the air.

knows just how to steer a vessel to bring it safely through the shoals and out into the open. Just so the Encyclopædia Britannica is the one absolutely reliable guide for the voyage of life. Une cannot go wrong if its teachings are followed. It tells the mistakes men have made; how others have succeeded and why. An intelligent man gets good from the experiences of others and steers clear of the rocks they ran against. The very presence of the Encyclo-
